

Autumn...

Well autumn is certainly here, and while the weather is cooling, the colours around us are warm and wonderful. These autumnal colours provide the perfect palette to work from when rejuvenating the décor of your home leading in to the winter months.

A scattering of luxurious cushions in reds, rust and oranges will make your living spaces inviting in the months ahead. And don't forget bump for your curtains! (Bump is flannelette-like fabric that can be easily added to curtains to act as extra insulation during winter)!

Winter is all about creating restful, relaxing spaces where you can recharge your batteries. However, for many of us, far from slowing down, our lives just seem to be speeding up!

The first quarter proved to be hectic for me with some big projects and tight deadlines. And while these jobs have necessitated me being away a fair bit, and while this quarter is proving to be equally busy, I wish to assure you, my valued clients that I still very much wish to work with you on your interiors. I only ask that you afford me a little more time than usual to get back to you. After all, good things take time!

Recent Projects...

I recently completed the interior design for the Community Centre at Mountainview Village. This photo depicts the tasteful, timeless look I created for residents to enjoy.

"Deborah Still was engaged at short notice to select colour, fabric and furniture options. Her task was made more difficult because she was required to work with existing colours yet introduce new complimentary options. There are 130 residents who reside at the Village and there has not been one in disagreement with Deborah's choices. Deborah has a very high reputation in Timaru and her professionalism during this particular project is another example of why." - Paul Dewsbery Mountain View Village Trust Chairman

And I also had the pleasure of dressing the interior of Bev and John Conlan's home (above). As you will read, they too were rapt with the finished look.

"It was such a privilege to work with Deborah. She made a real connection with us and we felt completely comfortable with her from the first visit. She is an expert and has such a depth of knowledge about colour, texture, style and design. She understood what we wanted and was able to make our choices easy. We loved that she listened to our ideas but also challenged us and gave us suggestions and advice so that we ended up with the results we wanted. We love our new look and could not have achieved the result we wanted without her." - Bev and John Conlan

Solar PV System

I have recently installed a PV system on my own studio. Enclosed is a flyer. It works by producing electricity from sunlight. It is certainly worth considering as we look towards a sustainable future. A PV system will also add value to your home. After all, our home is our biggest asset.
